

Pre-Boarding Exam and Evaluation form for Veterinarians

Thank you for taking the time to help us evaluate this pet as a candidate for boarding. We appreciate and value your feedback as it helps us provide the very best care of the pets that board with us. Based on this report Come-Play-Stay! Management will make the final determination if we are able to provide boarding services for this pet. Pets with medical concerns may be required, diabetics will be required, to meet with one of our veterinarians so that they can have a thorough understanding of the pets needs while they are in our care. Please Note: Pets that have been seen for end of life/quality of life discussions or listed as "DNR" will not be accepted as candidates for boarding.

Pre-Boarding exam questions to ask owner:

- Current diet and eating habits (pets, especially cats, who don't eat well at home are not good boarders)
- How does your pet handle stress? (and note how stressed pet seems during exam—low stress- tolerances are not good in boarding)
- Has the pet boarded before? (pets who have boarded previously do much better here)
- Has your pet's condition worsened or changed in the last three months?
- Inquire about any red-flags you see in medical history
